THE WHITE SLAVES OF EVGLAND .- According to testimony in a suit in Leicestershire, Eng-land, it appears that by working fifteen hours land, it appears that by working fifteen hours per day, the atocking knitters can earn from six to nine shillings per week. Of this, they paid from one to two shillings a week to the employer for the use of his knitting frame, so that the actual wages were reduced from five to seven shillings a week, of which they must take the larger amount in groceries of their employer, at his prices. The average wages is about one dollar and a-haif per week. The condition of those having families to support may be imagined. Some of those summoned as witnesses could not appear in Courtuitil decent clothing had been borrowed for them.

THE RIGHT VIEW OF MARRIAGE.—Two of The Rights since a young couple were mar-ried in Rochester, N. Y. The bride was a very beautiful girl, and had quite as beautiful a sister who was also unmarried. The expected fight for the championship, between the Benicia Boy and Tom Sayers, is now, and will be for some time to some, the principal topic of interest among the sporting fraternity. Money will be freely staked on both sides, and, when the contest is decided, it will be safe to presume that large sums will change hands. The London Globe says in reference to the matter:

reference to the matter:

The great prize fight, of which all sperting men are talking, is to take place on the 16th of April, and will be fought privately, though not perhaps confidentially, not very far from Middenhall, a little village town in Suffolk, on the Eastern Counties line of railway. Mr. Smiles, the secretary of the south-eastern railway, was applied to for a special train along his line, but the concession has been refused. The assailants in the forthcoming hat the are Tom Sayers, "the Champion of Englind," and a young fellow who is called "the Benicle Boy," an American, who has recently arrived in this country for the purpose of fighting any body who wholes to distinguish himself puglistically, especially "the Champion of Englistically, especially "the Champion of Englistically, from whom he wants to get "the belt," in order to take it across the Atlautic.

Tom Sayers, the present champion, is, according to common rumor, a small man, at the somewhat mature age of thirty-eight. He may, therefore, expect some rough treatment from a youngster of twenty-two, who fought the American Champles, but without success. Mr. Sayers, it appears, followed the honorable occupation of a bricklayer, until he got a taste for fighting, and when he got a little "up" in the world had the presumption to challenge Ben Caunt, who had "the belt." The magistrates of Middlesex, with a propriety of con-Ben Caunt, who had "the belt." The magistrates of Middleser, with a propriety of conduct which can not be too highly commended, told "Ben" that he might do one of two things: let, That he might fight, and not get his license for his public house in St. Martin's lane; and 2d, that he might not fight, and have his license continued. The valiant man of pugitistle fame preferred his license to his fists, and Tom Savers became abanyon of England without fame preferred his license to his fists, and Tom Sayers became champion of England without a fight. Now a vertiable Yankee challenges him, and the bets are in favores "our Courin." There is a rumor in sporting circles that the "roughs" will not allow the American to win, and that if he should get the advantage there will be a wrangle, with a view to deprive him of his honors. Without casing much for the result—which, it will be admitted, without much doubt, will not affect our national interests—it may be hoped that Tom Sayers and young "Benicia" will have fair play.

PROSERECT OF SAYRA'S TRIMPR.—The editor of the Mobile (Ala.) Herald has estimated Heensn's lungs, and reports:—"In our examination of Heensn, while in Mobile, we saw that he lacked chest, or, in other words, wind; and generally he looked snything but hardy, although big. And it was this defect of lungs which secured his defeat in the fight with Morrissey, who is a bull-headed fellow, with lungs as large as a forge bellows. He can stand and be beaten fall day. Heensn has to do his work in 'rounds' of a few minutes. After that he becomes weak. Sayer's, the English champion, is a little fellow, but has pluck and plenty of 'wind;' and added to these two qualities of endurance, he has great 'science,' and soon knows the man that he has to 'play' with. The probabilities are showever, that Heenan will not get the English 'belt.' Sayers will take pains to wear him out and flog him at his leigure." PROSPRCY OF SAYER'S TRIUMPH .- The editor

New War of the Roses.—A little "Paris gossip" says there is a mortal antipathy between Persigny and Fould, dating from the time of the Emperor's marriage. Persigny, time of the Emperor's marriage. Persigny, who is one of Napoleon's oldest and truest friends, was strongly opposed to his alliance with M'lle Montijo, and, before the marriage, Madame de Persigny was in the habit of "anubbing" the fature Empress on all available occasions. But Eugenie was a protege of the wily financier, who is now Minister of State, and he qietly set to work to make her Mrs. Napoleon III, and, as everybody knows, succeeded. Hence the enmity between the houses of Fould and Persigny; which, if the two gentlemen live, is likely to last as long as the War of the Roses.

MORE HEROISE AT THE LAWRENCE MILI DEASTRE.—General Henry K. Oliver, in a let-ter acknowledging donations from Salem, Mass., relates the following: There were in-stances of heroism, in the attempts at rescue, that were above even the highest praise. John Shaw, a youngster of some twenty years, him-self within the building when it fell, draw around him three girls to a place of safety; when the mill was all down, he took them out of the danger, went back "and dug out and saved three more." I place this same John Shaw above the John Shaw of the English Life Guards, who, at the battle of Waterloo slew seven Frenchmen. A higher here he who saves than he who slays.

HUNGER AND INDUSTRY .- The Industrial As-HUNGER AND INDUSTRY—The Industrial Association of New York furnish temporary employment to those who apply to them for food, being unable to precure it on account of want of work. Each one is required to work one hour before being allowed a seat at the dising table. The work is of various kinds, adapted to the physical capacity of the applicant, whether man, woman, or child. Since the plan has been in operation, the report of the superintendent show that one-third of the applicants have refused the conditions imposed.

As Interest Constant Showman.—A dime side-show in New Orleans having been deservedly denounced by two of the journals in that city, and having been refused license by the Mayor, the proprietor of the show brought suit against the offices and the Mayor, laying his damages at $10,000 in each case. That is altogether the coolest and most original legal proceeding we remember to have heard of for a number of years.

THE SIAMES TWING GROWING ORTHODOX. Among the converts baptised during the late revival in Surrey County, North Carolins, was Mrs. Adelaide Bunker, wife of Chang Bunker, one of the Siamese twins. The twins tooks deep interest in the meeting, and were much concerned about their souls' eter-nal salvation, and asked the ministers to rember them in their prayers.

WOMEN TARRED AND FRATHERED. - Three women TARRED AND FEATHERED.—Three women were tarred and feathered in Oakville, C. W., recently, by a gang of rowdles; a lack of virtue on the part of the victims, being the pretext for the vicience. Is this a specimen of Canadian chivalry? Such an outrage could hardly have been committed, we are proud to say, in the United States.

Pomonno Parvainess.—The Springseld Republican cautions the public against eating partridges at this season, as they are obliged to feed on laurel leaves, the extract of which is a virulent poison to the human system.
This extract impregnates the fiesh of the bird, and numbers of persons have been poisoned from eating it.

A Max Bonne to Duars.—John Struble, a hand employed at the salt works in Hempfield Township, Penn, while intoxicated, fell into a pan of boiling salt water, causing the fiesh to drop from his bence when extricated from his horrible situation. Singular to say, he lived till the next day, when death terminated his sufferings.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported back the Postoffice Appropriation Bill, whereupon the House resolved itself into a Committee of the Whole on the subject. Mr. Grow in the chair.

Mr. Sherman said the Senate amendment, providing for the printing of the Postoffice bianks by contract, was one which ought to be adopted in an independent law, and all the members of the Committee of Ways and Means were in favor of such legislation, but they were opposed to its incerporation in an appropriation bill; to carry out an existing law no new legislation should be inserted therein. Such a practice had been growing up for a few years past, and the committee up for a few years past, and the committee want to put a stop to it; he would, therefore recommend that the House now concar in the

It was a measure of reform, and seventy per cent. Would be saved by it to the Government. Mr. Lovejoy expressed the hope that the House would concur in the amendment.

Mr. Millson opposed the amendment abolishing the franking privilege.

Mr. Gobb advocated the giving out of the printing of postoffice blanks by contract.

Mr. Florence said that it was a mistake that seventy per cent. Would be saved; but about thirty would be.

Mr. Cobb replied that that was worth saving. He also advocated the abolition of the franking privilege. The good in the system was not equal to the evils.

Mr. Stanton favored the striking out of both amendments. He was under an obligation thus early to vote so as to prevent the evil practice of incorporating of independent legislations in appropriation bills. He expressed himself favorable to the abolition of the franking privilege, and relative to giving the printing privilege, and relative to giving the print-ing of postoffice blanks to the lowest bidder, when the committee rose. No definite action on the bill was taken.

Naw York, February 11.—The Tribune's Washington correspondence of the 10th says:

A personal difficulty happened after the adjournment of the Hours to-day. The number of converts seems to be as constant as if some divine law regulated and controled their icaux. Each week brings its quots, until we have no room to accommodate them at the communion table, and are obliged to meet in two bodies, that all may find a place."

A SAFE RAILROAD.—The Pennsylvania Rail-road Company, in the last annual report, inform the stockholders and the public that there has not been a life lost upon their line, and this notwithstanding that in 1859 there were 1.459,110 passengers transported, and 54,839,691 mises traveled.

Ics Plasse Macriss—A new machine for planing the surface of ice was applied on Friday, for the first time, on Salisbury Pond. The machine works well, taking off an ineh, and leaving the ice smooth for skating.
